The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: On page 1, in the cross-reference paragraph the issued patent number of 10/021,742 has been omitted.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

It is unclear whether claim 2 is further limiting, since claim 1 already recites routing to above-ground.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1,2,4,9 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hewlett patent 5,133,622 which incorporates the disclosure of Hewlett patent 4,721,408, by reference.

Hewlett '622 discloses a system comprising flow control passage 16/22/32 that includes an inlet from a pressurizing means 14 (delivering water from a below ground source such as a well/see column 4, lines 58-60), first conduit 16 and routing conduit 32 that may be above ground (see column 4, lines 42-46 of the incorporated '408 disclosure citing 'portions of ... above ground'), the routing conduit connecting directly [as reqd. by claim 4] to housing of discharge pump 40 or housing of filter 44, for routing back below ground to the well source. Also disclosed is a flow control valve 42.

Regarding claims 9 and 10, see "drain" conduit 36 downstream of filter and pump housing.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hewlett patent 5,133,622 that incorporates the disclosure of Hewlett patent 4,721,408 by reference in view of Shettel patent 5,002,428.

Claim 8 differs in requiring programmable control circuitry. Shettel teaches such programmable circuitry (column 2, lines 41-59, etc.). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have incorporated the programmable circuitry of Shettel into the system of Hewlett '622, in order to effect flow through the system, on demand, for irrigation, responsive to sensed conditions of the irrigated areas.

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-10 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-41 of U.S. Patent No. 6,635,172; or over claims 1-19 of Patent No. 6,358,408 or over claims 1-15 of Patent No. 6,035,704. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the instant claims are substantially generic to the more limiting, narrower, species claims of parent patents '172, '408 or '704 and differ substantially only in elimination of clauses pertaining to programmable control interface or programmable circuitry. Options of the claimed system being either manual or automatic and programmable are deemed obvious to the ordinarily skilled artisan.

Pending resolution of double patenting issues, claims 3, and 5-7 would be distinguished if amended to incorporate all of the limitations of independent claim 1 from which they depend.

Claim 3 would distinguish in view of the claimed splash guard below the discharge housing. Such feature would not be obvious to incorporate with the generally closed system of the Hewlett references.

Claims 5-7 would likewise be distinguished in view of recitation of the dissipator of claim 5.
